

Internal medicine department
First term final written medicine examination (Med220)
15/1/2022
Second year
Time allowed: 2 hours

faculty of nursing
Port-Said university

All the following questions should be answered:

1. Differentiate between type 1 and type 2 diabetes. (10 marks)
2. Mention the tips and precautions you should follow for accurate & correct blood pressure assessment. (7 marks)
3. Demonstrate the anthropometric measures used for diagnosis and assessment of obesity? (5 marks) And enumerate 5 complications of obesity? (5 marks)
4. List types of renal stones and what is the commonest type? (3 marks)
5. Enumerate risk factors associated with recurrent urinary tract infection. (5 marks)
6. Mention signs indicating poor control of bronchial asthma. (5 marks)

Choose one correct answer of the following: (4 marks)

7. Which of the following is not a feature of graves' disease?
 - a) More common in females than males.
 - b) The disease has autoimmune pathology.
 - c) Surgical removal of the gland is considered the first line of treatment.
 - d) Smoking is strongly correlated with disease progression.
8. Which of the following is not considered as a complicated UTI:?
 - a) 25-year-old lady complicating of UTI during pregnancy.
 - b) 60-year-old man has benign prostatic hyperplasia with recurrent UTI.
 - c) 32-year-old female with symptoms of acute pyelonephritis.
 - d) 15-year-old boy with congenital vesico-ureteric reflux.
9. Hypothyroidism is characterized by which of the following:
 - a) Exaggerated deep reflexes.
 - b) Hypocholesterolemia.
 - c) Mental slowing & decrease concentration.
 - d) Weight loss in spite of good appetite.

بقية الاسئلة فى الورقة الثانية

Internal medicine department
First term final written medicine examination (Med220)
15/1/2022
Second year
Time allowed: 2 hours

faculty of nursing
Port-Said university

10. Regarding heart failure all are true except:

- a) All cases are characterized by low cardiac output.
- b) Right side heart failure may occur due to COPD.
- c) Acute Left sided heart failure manifests by acute pulmonary edema.
- d) The use of analgesics such as NSAIDs may be precipitating factor for acute failure.

Put true (T) or false (f) opposite to the following sentences: (6 marks)

- 11. Urine alkalinization is useful for prevention & dissolving of calcium phosphate stone.
- 12. Regarding NYHA functional classification of HF, class II characterized by dyspnea on ordinary effort.
- 13. Primary hypertension is more common than secondary.
- 14. Asymptomatic bacteriuria is considered the most common form of UTI.
- 15. Obesity is considered as a risk factor of bronchial asthma.
- 16. Lobar pneumonia is characterized by bilateral patchy distribution.

انتهت الاسئلة

GOOD LUCK

Dr/Naglaa Fadel